

Notice regarding OSHA's New Recordkeeping and Reporting Final Rule
Updated November 21, 2014

On September 18, OSHA published a final rule in the Federal Register revising the reporting requirements of severe injuries and updating the list of industries partially exempt from recordkeeping requirements established in 29 CFR 1904. Establishments in federal jurisdictions must comply with the new requirements beginning January 1, 2015.

In 2006, Kentucky implemented reporting requirements found in 803 Kentucky Administrative Regulation \(KAR\) 2:180 that differ from OSHA's current requirements but are similar to OSHA's September 18 final rule. The Department of Workplace Standards is reviewing OSHA's September 18 final rule to determine what action may be necessary.

OSHA's September 18 final rule will not go into effect in Kentucky on January 1, 2015; 803 KAR 2:180 remains in effect in the Commonwealth of Kentucky.
